

Mindfulness quote of the week:

'You have not failed unless you have stopped trying'

Here we are at the end of another fun packed week of learning and only one more week is now left of this half term.

This week in English, the children wrote alternative chapters for the novel we are reading. I was very impressed with their writing! We are going to make a lovely display of this in class. In maths we have been dividing larger amounts and today during number day the children also developed their estimating skills and made a range of 3D shapes. In computing they created their own piece of coding within scratch. The children have also completed some incredible moving and pop-up books for their homework tasks! A huge well done to everyone! You make our class sparkle and shine!

Well done to our super stars of this week!

These children have demonstrated amazing creativity and worked so very hard within all lessons this week! They are friendly, helpful and very respectful pupils, who should be extremely proud of themselves!

Reminders

Thursday 12th February is the Valentines disco. Please send your consent letter back or message me on seesaw if you haven't got one and I will add your child to the list.

Next Friday 13th February our Y5 children are out of school on their school trip.

We also break up for half time next Friday at the usual time.

Have a lovely weekend together! Kind regards Miss Jones & Miss Smith
